WOMEN MAKING LAST EFFORT TO SAVE MARY ROGERS FROM HANGING

TO FIGHT TO LAST DITCH

This Will Act as a Stay and Prevent Execution of the Woman on Friday.

SPECIAL TO THE BOSTON AMERICAN.

MONTPELIER, Vt., May 20.—With the refusal of Governor Holt, the Legislature and finally the Supreme Court of the State, to further require, to commute the sentence of arrest a pardon to Mary Rogers, Vermont has declared itself ready to accept the death of a woman.

Her counsel, Hon. John H. Senter and Hon. T. W. Moloney, are now looking to an appeal on a writ of error to the Supreme Court of the United States as the only hope of preventing her being executed on Friday.

In her death cell in the State prison at Windsor, Mary Rogers today is waiting to die, whether or not she must die on Friday.

The prison authorities have refused to let her leave her cell to go to the State House to see the Governor, and she is now waiting for the death train, being fitted out with the furniture of the death cell upon which the law has said the woman must hang.

In the office of John H. Senter, this afternoon are searching the law for an answer to that question. For a woman to appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States is a new thing in Vermont. It is expected that the law will be found in the case of the woman who was killed by a train in 1892.

Must Be Based on Error of Law.

These results for her of three more full years of life in the case of error should not be filed.

Indorsement there have been made by the Governor, the Legislature and the Supreme Court of the State, to prevent her being executed on Friday.

A writ of error taken to the Federal Court can be based only upon the ground of error of law on the part of the State Court of the State of Vermont.

The only chance that Mary Rogers has been given in this case is that of an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Whether or not the appeal will be successful, the filing of a writ of error will act as a stay of execution.

Her attorneys file the writ of error with the Supreme Court of the United States at Washington, D. C., today.

They'll Be Hanging Mary Rogers Friday Morning

THE knotted noose is swinging on the gallows by the gate. The grim and stern-faced judges have signed the writ of Fata. For the glory and the honor of the old Green Mountain State, They'll be hanging Mary Rogers Friday morning.

The stars above the prison shine in peaceful quietness. To them what matters if we kill one woman, more or less? If she expected mercy why did she herself transgress? So will hang old Mary Rogers in the morning.

Society will be avenged the while she swings and ways, And turning from the prison yard, we'll go our merry ways, And spend with easy conscience our calm and tranquil days, Though we hang poor Mary Rogers Friday morning.

Content to think that things like these are none of our affairs, Though troubled, when our children ask, before they say their prayers, "Who gave to men the right to take a life that was not theirs?" When they hang poor Mary Rogers Friday morning.

The hempen noose is waiting on the gallows by the gate, And God, who made the judges, holds the awful book of Fate, For the honor and the glory of the old Green Mountain State, They'll be hanging Mary Rogers Friday morning.

WHY MRS. ROGERS SHOULD BE RETRIED

BY MRS. WILLIAM BLICKENSER-FEE.

We are not seeking to free Mary Rogers, but to show that she should be retried in the case of error.

To this end a new trial is being sought. Her grandmother, father and uncle were equally accused of the crime. The grandmother attempted the life of the victim.

The girl showed mental instability when she was young. It was known that she was a marked mental case. Her grandmother, father and uncle were equally accused of the crime.

After recovering from the shock of the trial, she was found to be a marked mental case. Her grandmother, father and uncle were equally accused of the crime.

One boy who was a confirmed truant because interested in his garden and is now a regular attendant. The boys have grown to love the work. In the crowded houses and streets of a big city, they know nothing of flowers and trees and growing things until this experiment was made. It has been of great educational, artistic and ethical value.
